WILLIMANTIC

Thieves at Work.

While Harold Wiggins and his family were at the fair on Wednesday afternoon their house at 94 Prospect street was broken into and when the occupants returned from their afternoon's pleasure they found a number of valuable articles of jewelry, including watches and scarfpins, missing. They reported the matter to Chief Richmond at police headquarters at 6.30 o'clock, who made a preliminary examination of the surroundings. There was no indication as to how entrance to the house was gained and nothing much for the police to work on.

Mr. Wiggins said they went to the fair about 2 o'clock and returned shortly after 5. During their absence somebody had gained access to their bedrooms and had pocketed the various articles which Mr. Wiggins was making a list of Wednesday night to give to the police today from bureau.

At the fair on Wednesday the police closed three games in which it appeared that money was up for prizes. On Tuesday it is stated that a Willimantic young man lost $40 in a game, but no complaint was made to the authorities.

Greeks Embittered by War.

Local Greek residents are following the trend of events in the Balkans with great interest. In a city where lived a wealthy Greek resident in a beautiful home, a very valuable rug. This was seized by Bulgarian soldiers, who said that they were acting under orders of their general, and that the rug would be paid for, but the next day the Greek owner was evicted from his home and driven from the city. Incidents like these, the local Greeks say, is what is making the people here so bitter against their former allies.

Wheat Raised at Pomfret.

Fayette L. Wright, one of the best known farmers in the town of Pomfret, has raised several hundred bushels of wheat this year, this grain not being raised to any great extent by farmers in this part of Connecticut.

A new section has been added to the switchboard in the local central office of the telephone company and is now in service. This section is used principally as a switching position, as a great amount of such work is done for the Connecticut points through the local office.

Only a percentage of spring and rubber tired vehicles seen out at night in this section are equipped with lights as required by the law that recently became effective. Because of this negligence automobile owners are complaining.

The divorce suit brought by Mrs. Vada Van Valkenburg, Pomfret, known as the $10,000,000 widow, against her husband, that was to have been tried today has again been postponed because of the fact that counsel could not reach an agreement to be here today. The case may be tried September 25.

Manual Training at High School.

The town school committee has decided to fit up the manual training room at the high school, for which equipment has been on hand for some time. A manual training course will very probably soon be introduced into the high school course and a suggestion is heard that the state trade school might be consolidated with the high school, manual training department, but whether or not this will be done cannot be definitely stated at this time, as it only has been suggested.

STRIKE SETTLED.

Workmen on Elm Street Held $2 for Ten-Hour Day—A Few Held Out for Nine Hours.

Improvement work on Elm street was delayed Wednesday, when a score or more of Italian laborers, in the employ of the contractor who is doing the street work, went on a strike over the wage scale. They have been receiving $1.75 for a ten hour day, but claimed they were promised $2 for a day of nine hours work when they were hired by an agent in Hartford. During the day there was a conference with a representative of the contracting company by the strikers and a local attorney, the outcome being an agreement that the men go back to work this (Thursday) morning on the basis of $2 for a ten hour day.

Those who return to work will be guaranteed police protection from interference by any of the strikers who refuse to accept the agreement. Wednesday those who were on strike met in the afternoon on the street curb, watching the few that remained on the job.

UNNATURAL FATHER JAILED.

Elmer Phillips, 47, Held in $3,000 Bonds After Story by 16-Year-Old Daughter.

Elmer Phillips, 47, was presented in the city court at one o'clock Wednesday afternoon on a charge of incest and after a hearing he was bound over to the superior court, probably causing for holding him having been found. His bond was fixed at $3,000, and as he could not secure it he was taken to jail.

Phillips has been employed in No. 1 woolen mill as a weaver, and was arrested there Wednesday morning by Captain John Murray, after Mrs. Phillips, who is the step-mother of Emma Phillips, with whom he has been charged Phillips committed the crime, had complained of her husband's actions with his daughter, who is only 16 years of age.

Phillips was arrested by statements made by witnesses in the case that on Monday of this week Phillips left his home on Mill street and took up a place of abode on Lee street. Monday, it was charged, Phillips met his daughter when she was coming home from work in the mill where she has been employed and induced her to come to his home and remain for the night.

During the night, in the early hours of Tuesday morning, it was testified, Phillips entered his daughter's room, where she was sleeping, and committed in part to her step-mother, when she next saw her, and in full to Mrs. Ellen M. Place, in Webster, where she went to spend Tuesday night. It was testified that Phillips was exhausted within an hour after their arrival. The prisoner denies the charge that has been made against him.

INTEREST IN ARSON CHARGES.

Public Reads with Avidity All News Pertaining to Howarth and Cain.

There were no developments Wednesday in the case of Attorney Frank E. Howarth and Lindley H. Cain, arrested here Tuesday on arson charges. The matter, however, remained the leading topic of conversation and a subject of much speculation as to motives that could have actuated the young men, if they are guilty of the crimes charged.

The deep surprise that marked the attitude of local people on the first announcement of the arrests had worn away Wednesday, but interest in the case had not abated in any degree. Papers that carried stories of the arrests sold as would silver dollars marked down to a nickel Wednesday morning and the supply was exhausted within an hour after their arrival in the city. So intense was the interest in the case that those who did not get papers offered premiums for them to those who were more fortunate, while others borrowed until some copies had been read by a score of people.

Various rumors of important developments in the case were in circulation through the city during the day, but there was no truth in any of them, the situation remained unchanged up to Wednesday night.

Hewarth Surety Insurance Companies.

An Associated Press despatch from Hartford says:—

"An interesting discovery was made

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see your hair growing and coming at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug gist or toilet counter, and just try it.

In this city today in connection with the arrest at Putnam, Tuesday, of Frank E. Howarth, the brother of Howarth and Lindley H. Cain, a messenger of the superior court of Windham county, both charged with arson. One of the fires that Howarth and Cain are said to have set occurred April 3, when a paint shop on the Putnam fair grounds was burned and eight automobiles were destroyed, entailing a loss of about $10,000.

Howarth owned two of the automobiles and it was discovered today that a writ had been served recently on the insurance commission at the capital in a suit brought by Howarth against the Commercial Union Assurance company, Limited of London, England, for $2,400 damages, the writ returnable to the Windham county superior court the first Tuesday in October. Not the least interesting thing about the suit is that the writ is signed by Lindley H. Cain as a commissioner of the superior court. Howarth sues for the insurance on his machines, which cost $380 on one and $1,400 on another. The company had refused to pay the policies and has retained states attorney Alcorn to defend the suit.

Big Audience Heard the Firefly.

The Firefly, a comedy opera of unusual interest and pleasing features, was the attraction here the Bradley after Wednesday evening, when a large audience gathered in the house for the first big musical show of the season. The company, though competent one and was very well received.

There is a real train of dramatic interest throughout the production and a number of the musical features proved very popular with the audience.

Plan for Fixing Sewer Assessments.

Two reports have been received by the common council from the committee of its members appointed on the matter of devising a system of fixing sewer assessments. The majority report was for a plan to raise 70 per cent of the cost of sewers by general taxation, and 30 per cent, by taxing the abutters. The minority report was for raising all of the money by general taxation.

There is to be an adjourned meeting of the common council September 23, when interested persons will have an opportunity to be heard on the matter, after which a decision will probably be made by the council.

Mrs. C. M. Green has been entertaining Mrs. Hutchings and Miss Hutchings from Maine.
